From Imaginary to Real:
Native Presence in UNM Campus Art and Architecture

Chris Wilson, Professor & Director of the Historic Preservation Certificate Program at the School of Architecture and Planning, will lead a tour of the University of New Mexico campus, along with fellow professionals. The tour will describe UNM’s unique architectural history and campus public art in relation to the rise in indigenous presence on campus, covering history from UNM’s inception as a university to the architecture of John Gaw Meem to modern architectural styles.

Potluck to commence after tour at the School of Architecture and Planning Room 115. Come talk and enjoy wonderful food!

This tour is a planned event to celebrate Native American Heritage Month.

Saturday, November 19th
12 - 2 pm
Meet at Hodgin Hall

Sponsored by the UNM Chapter of the American Indian Council of Architects & Engineers